DETAILED ACTION

Oath/Declaration

The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because:
It does not state that the person making the oath or declaration acknowledges the duty to disclose to the Office all information known to the person to be material to patentability as defined in 37 CFR 1.56.

Specifically, the duty includes the statement "in this application" which has not been identified in the current declaration. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for a process for drying or concentrating, does not reasonably provide enablement for submitting a solution or biomass to microwaves for a period of time sufficient to reduce solvent concentration from the solution or biomass in proportions of between 0.0001% and 100%. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the best mode for the claimed time in proportions also claimed the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. The claimed "sufficient time" and range from one in ten thousand to all concentrate is not specified to enable those skilled in the art to make and use the best mode because it would encompass everything from cooking microwave popcorn in a domestic environment to industrial applications as recognized by applicants.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The claimed "sufficient period of time" and wide range of solvent concentration is indefinite because it would cover every microwave application for drying or concentrating.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Komanowsky (US 6,092,301). The claims are reasonably and broadly construed, in light of the accompanying specification, to be disclosed by Komanowsky, as comprising:

a process for drying or concentrating with low or no degradation a biodegradable polymer in a solution or a biomass comprising submitting said solution or biomass to microwaves for a period of time sufficient to reduce solvent concentration from said solution or biomass in proportions of between 0.0001% to 100% at column 7 line 64 through column 9 line 10. Komanowsky also discloses the claimed polymer being synthetic or natural polymer at column 9 lines 40-46.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 3-12 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Komanowsky in view of Tweedy (US 6,175,037). Komanowsky discloses the claimed invention as rejected above, except for the claimed polymer group, polyester or polyalcohol selection, microwave frequency and power, degradation level, solvent type, polyhydroxyalkanoate group, or polar organic solvent group. Tweedy, another process for drying or concentrating, discloses those features at column 2 line 65 through column 17 line 13. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to combine the teachings of Komanowsky, with the features of a polymer group, polyester or polyalcohol selection, microwave frequency and power, degradation level, solvent type, polyhydroxyalkanoate group, or polar organic solvent group for the purpose of effectively using microwave energy in a wide variety of materials, energy levels, and/or frequencies.
